Editorial Review

From the Author

This is the second edition and paperback version of this book originally released on Kindle.

From the Back Cover

The Father of medicine "Hippocrates" was an advocate of turpentine as a medicinal "cure-all". Turpentine is the sap (distilled resin) derived from the Pine and Balsam Fir Trees, among other trees. The active chemical substance in turpentine is pinene, a powerful terpene. Turpentine was used as a common and effective medicinal remedy from the time of Hippocrates in 450 BC up until the beginning of the twentieth century.
